Stories Beyond Words

As part of the Todmorden Book Festival, Kahlo class will have some work displayed at the 'Stories Beyond Words' event at Todmorden College on Saturday 15th November. This is a free event and will include displays of work from pupils across the town, music, dance and story telling. Classroom News

HOPPER

This week the Hopper children have commemorated Remembrance Day. They have used different loose parts and craft materials to create poppies. In PE they have been rolling, throwing, kicking and bouncing balls. This has helped them to develop their gross motor skills.

WARHOL

We are well into our rehearsals for our nativity now and can't wait to perform it to an audience. Please help your child to practice their lines at home so that they know them off by heart.

DALI

This week, the children have really enjoyed diving into the story The Iron Man. They loved exploring the characters, imagining the scenes, and discussing the exciting events in the book. We have also begun working on our new space-themed dance routine, which has already sparked lots of creativity and enthusiasm. The children have been experimenting with movements inspired by rockets, stars, and planets—it's been wonderful to see their ideas come to life. We're excited to continue developing the routine over the next few weeks!

KAHLO

Storyteller Visit Inspires Young Authors!

This week, we were thrilled to welcome storyteller Ian Douglas to our class for a fantastic storytelling workshop. The children were captivated by his tales and learned all about how to bring stories to life through words, imagination, and performance. Inspired by Ian's visit, the class created their own graphic novels based on Jack's Fantastic Journey. Each story is full of creativity, adventure, and amazing artwork!

You can see the children's graphic novels on display this weekend at the Todmorden Book Festival, don't miss it!
