Thank you to all our families this morning for joining us at our cake and coffee morning. What a great turn out it was!

Together with our coffee morning and sales at breaktime we have raised £197.41 for Macmillan.

We are also selling cakes again after school today.

Courageous Advocates

I am sure you will have heard your child talking about a courageous advocate for their class. This is something we have been looking at across the school about where individuals have made a significant difference to others. Each class have their own courageous advocate that they will be learning more about throughout the year and raising money within their class for a charity linked to the courageous advocate. Please see overleaf names and a little bit about the person and the charity. We will be hosting coffee mornings in the coming weeks for your child's class where you can find out more about the chosen courageous advocate.

Our school courageous advocates

Reception have chosen Frank Rothwell (the Chariman of Oldham Athletic) as our courageous advocate because he faces scary challenges and he speaks up and takes action to help others not just himself. Frank has raised a lot of money for Alzheimer's UK through his charity work. This year just like Frank our class are going to raise money for Alzheimer's UK.

Year 1 have chosen Michelle Obama as our courageous advocate because she is caring and shows determination and courage in helping others. She is committed in supporting children in their education and inspires us to be confident and make good choices. She is also a role model for black people, showing that everyone can achieve their dreams. We decided to support Barnardo's because, like Michelle Obama, they care for and protect children, showing values of kindness, fairness and hope.

Year 1/2 have chosen Amelia Earhart as our courageous advocate because she used her bravery not just for herself but to help others believe in themselves too. Amelia Earhart was a famous pilot who loved flying and adventures. She was the first woman to fly across the Atlantic Ocean when most people thought flying was too dangerous. Stemettes is a charity that helps girls and young women aged 5-25 become interested in STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts & Maths) careers.

Year 2 have chosen Brian Cox as their courageous advocate because he is a physicist, TV presenter, astronomer, journalist and musician. He has an OBE and is a man of many talents. His fascination with physics and the cosmos is infectious; he has inspired many young people around the world, ensuring that science plays a big part in popular culture. The charity that Brian supports is called The Jon Egging Trust. The Jon Egging Trust supports the social and emotional development of vulnerable and under-confident young people, fostering confidence and aspiration with STEM subjects.

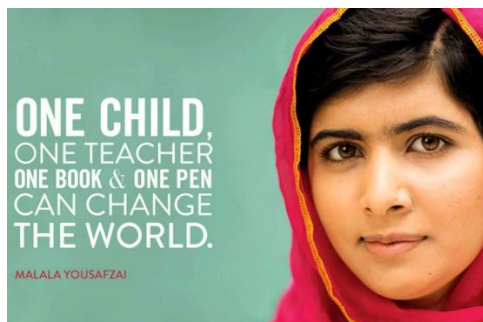

Year 3 have chosen Audrey Hepburn as their courageous advocate because she showed bravery and kindness by helping children in need who were less fortunate. After facing hardship as a child, she worked with UNICEF, travelling to difficult places to make a difference. That is why Year 3 have chosen UNICEF as our charity, to continue the work she cared about so much.

Year 3/4 have chosen Steve Irwin as their courageous advocate because of his incredible work in animal conservation. We have chosen to support the World Wildlife Fund (WWF) as our charity. WWF works to protect endangered animals and their habitats, just like Steve Irwin did throughout his life. Supporting WWF helps protect wildlife and their homes all around the world.

Year 4/5 have chosen Malala Yousafzai because she is a great role model who stands up for children, particularly girls in education ensuring everyone gets to go to school. She also shows the importance of having a voice and voicing your beliefs. Our charity is Plan International UK, a global children's charity striving for a fairer world.

Year 5 have chosen Martin Luther King Jr. as their courageous advocate. He was a brave leader who fought peacefully against unfair laws that treated Black people badly in America. He showed great resilience while standing up to social injustice. Some of his most important events include the Montgomery Bus Boycott, where people refused to ride buses until the rules became fair, and his organisation of the March on Washington in 1963, where he gave his famous "I Have a Dream" speech. His main goal was to make sure everyone was treated equally, no matter the colour of their skin, and his work inspired people all over the world. In the UK, a charity called Equally Ours continues this work by supporting equality and fairness for everyone.

Year 6 have chosen Kevin Sinfield as our courageous advocate because of his actions that have raised awareness of MND (Motor Neurone Disease) and the impact it has on families whilst also raising unbelievable amounts of money. We hope this will help our children to understand the importance of being able to make change through actions and beliefs alongside the charitable giving. Our charity for this year is MND association.
