HAPPY 100TH BIRTHDAY!
Sir David Attenborough

Today is Sir David Attenborough's 100th Birthday. Here at school we held a whole school assembly and talked about his important work and all of the wonderful discoveries he has made. Our Eco Council along with Mrs Sykes and Mrs Thomas planted a Prunus Nigra tree on our school grounds to mark this special occasion. A huge thank you to one of our Dad's, Mr Thomas, who helped dig the hole for the tree.

In Science this week Rowan class have been looking at the different parts of blood and creating their own version of blood using things like marshmallows and olive oil! What a wonderful way to experiment with different consistencies.

Year 1 have been making mazes using Lego bricks. The children created a set of instructions for the algorithm to move through the maze. The children have learnt about algorithms and how creating clear instructions are very important.

Sycamore had a lot of fun in this week, learning about loops in music. They listened to a dance track and recognised instruments, dynamics, tempo changes and structure changes. Then then used their bodies to create different loops.

Our year 5 and 6 netballers went up to Crossgates Primary school on Thursday and played three matches. We won one, drew one and lost one. The team worked well together and it was a lovely opportunity for our up and coming team to get some game experience. Well done to everyone who took part.

Winning class this week is:

Ash Class

Well done to Hazel & Willow for achieving the highest attendance this week with 98.9%!

There will be no Come Read With Me on Monday 11th May due to our Year 6 SAT's preparation. Thank you for your understanding.

We would like to wish our wonderful Year 6's the best of luck with their SAT tests next week. We know how hard they have worked and we couldn't be prouder. Good luck Year 6!
