Dear Parents and Carers

Our children have been busy over the past couple of weeks on various trips that enhance and inspire the learning they have been doing in the classroom. I am so proud to hear from the adults that went with each group that their behaviour on these trips has been exemplary and that all children have been fantastic ambassadors for the school. I was also approached recently by a Herts Catering Manager who works across many of the Primary schools in the area, she told me that our children have the best table manners and our dining room is the most orderly and calm environment in all of the schools she visits.

I am also very proud of the work that I am seeing in books so far this year. We can really see the impact of children's hard work at home on their handwriting, spellings and reading. Please do encourage your children to practise these at home (as well as their timetables) as they are the foundations that all of their learning is based upon and ensures that they can access the learning in class that much easier.

Have a great weekend.

Yours sincerely

Mr Brewis

Following on from our message yesterday regarding the alert issued by the children's publisher Puffin, these are the books they are referring to.

Please check if your child has any of these books at home and remind them of the importance of checking with you before they click or enter any link. We will be removing these books from our school library.
