

Dear Parents and Carers,

At Welcombe Hills, we believe that strong, positive relationships between school and home are vital to the success, wellbeing, and happiness of every child.

Research consistently shows that when schools and families work closely together:

- Children feel more secure and confident in their learning
- Behaviour and wellbeing improve
- Families are better informed and equipped to support their children
- Progress is greater—both academically and personally

This is especially important for SEND students, where consistency, communication, and partnership are key to providing the best possible support for every learner.

What Are We Doing?

We are currently reviewing how we communicate with families as part of an effort to strengthen our home-school relationships. This includes looking at:

- What information we share and how often
- The platforms we use (e.g. letters, Dojo, meetings)
- How we can make communication more accessible, timely, and meaningful for you

How Can You Help?

We would be grateful if you could complete a short online survey to tell us what's working well—and what we could do better. Your feedback will help us to identify what we need to change and will directly shape the next version of our Home-School Communication Policy and help us build stronger, more responsive connections with all our families.
